Your colour journey is about to start...

Welcome to Online Colour Analysis! You are about to find out which colours suit you best, which ones to choose as neutrals and which ones you can safely avoid.

In your Personal Colour Guide you will also find advice on how to combine your colours and outfits, how to choose colours and metals for accessories and personally tailored advice for choosing the right hair colour.

Before we get started, you need to send me:

- A photo of your face taken in daylight, preferably standing by a window or outside not in direct sun. If you have glasses, take them off for this photo.
- I need to be able to see your eye colour and skin colour clearly, so make sure that the photo is mainly of your face.
- In addition to your portrait photo, please also send:
- several photos of you wearing different colours. These can be existing photos or you can take them specially for this. Only requirement is that the lighting is good, so no filter/backlight/dimly lit photos.
- If you have good/clear photos of you as a child or teenager, send those too.
- The more photos of you, the better!

- It's best to wear no makeup so I can see your natural colouring. A bit of concealer on a spot is ok, but if you for example have natural redness in your face, I need to be able to see that as well.
  - If you use fake tan or dye your hair, it's best if you avoid using fake tan or dyeing your hair before taking the photo, as I want to see your natural colouring.
  - If you have dyed hair, please send also photos where your hair is covered or pulled back into a bun. It is useful for me to see both the dyed hair and your natural hair colour against your complexion, so if you have photos of you with your natural hair colour, send those as well.

Once I have your photos and information, I create your Personal Colour Guide and send it to you. Typically it will only take a few days but allow for up to a week.

I look forward to receiving your photos and helping you start your colour journey!

Love,

Anna

Terms and conditions

- The services I offer are individual and are based on the client providing me sufficient information in form of photos and possible additional information.
- Your results from my services is therefore partly dependent on your cooperation and the use you make of the professional advice I provide to you.
- Should you be unhappy with anything in your Personal Colour Guide, please reach out to me.
- I never share photos of my clients without their permission and I always ask first. Parts of colour/style guides may be shared for marketing purposes but they will always be anonymised first
- The service is non-refundable, should you, however, be unhappy with something, please reach out to me.
- Payment for online services is always made in advance. If you regret your order and wish to cancel, this must be done before sending me your photos, as my work counts as commenced, once I have received your photos.
- Colour Queen can not be held legally or financially accountable in the case of faulty purchases of clothes/makeup/accessories, or any financial loss related thereto.
